

GDPR COMPLIANCE POLICY

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is currently in effect. Tourismojobs takes the protection of your data extremely seriously.

What is GDPR?

GDPR stands for General Data Protection Regulation. It is the biggest change to EU data privacy for over 20 years and creates a single set of rules that better protects personal information for people across the EU. All global organizations must review how they manage your personal data, such as your contact details including, but not limited, to address, phone numbers and email address, to ensure they meet GDPR requirements. You also have the right to be forgotten.

What are your rights with respect to your Personal Data?

Tourismo Jobs takes your privacy very seriously and provides the full suite of GDPR - type rights to all our users globally. This includes the rights to access your Personal Data; delete your Personal Data; get your Personal Data in a portable format; and the rights to restrict or object to certain processing of your Personal Data. Where our use of your Personal Data is based on your consent, you also have the right to withdraw that consent. Please see section 10 of our full Privacy Policy for further information in respect of your rights and how they can be exercised.

You also have the right to complain to your local data protection supervisory authority with respect to our processing of your information and further details on this are included in section 12.2 of our full Privacy Policy.
